BIOGRAPHY

Kelsey Croft joined PCM LLP in July 2024 and brings a robust level of practical experience to our team. Her legal career has focused on workplace law for the last six years and she has developed considerable expertise in handling the overlapping legal and policy issues that arise in workers compensation matters across a variety of industries, including construction, education and hospitality. She also has a specific interest in workplace investigations.

Kelsey has represented clients before federal and provincial tribunals, as well as the BC Provincial and Supreme Courts. Her hearing experience enables her to provide practical advice in workers compensation, labour and employment matters, and her thoughtful approach to advocacy is an asset to our clients.

In addition, Kelsey speaks Spanish.

Outside of work, Kelsey is a director of Urban Ink, an Indigenous arts non-profit.
